

Scholarships To Attend UTMB Awarded To 52

Scholarships ranging from $100 to $300 have been awarded to 52 students for attendance at The University of Tennessee, Martin Branch, beginning the fall quarter.

The scholarships, amounting to more than $10,000, were made available by individuals, corporations, county farm bureaus and banks in West Tennessee.

The following students are among those who have been notified of awards to date, according to Professor Lloyd King, chairman of the UTMB scholarship committee:

Brownie K. Argo, Ridgely, Liberal Arts, the G. F. Parker scholarship, $150.

Rosa Arnold, Bradford, Business, the Greenfield Mfg. Co. Employees Club, $200.

Larry Beasley, Newbern, Agriculture, Dyer County Farm Bureau scholarship, $100.

Billy Joe Bethel, Greenfield, Engineering, Greenfield Banking Company, $150.

Lynn Dale Bivens, Friendship, Engineering, Forcun-Lannom, Inc., $460.

Mary Ellen Branch, Newbern, Home Economics, Vaughn Furniture and Appliance Store, $200.

Alec Bridges, Hohenwald, Pre-Medicine, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Brandon, Sr., $150.

Betty Brooks, Martin, Home Economics, Weakley County Farm Bureau, $150.

James S. Boney, Normandy, Engineering, Sharon Bank scholarship, $150.

Sharon Ann Carney, Dresden, Business, Dresden Mfg. Co. Employees Club, $200.

Jerry Carpenter, Newbern, Agriculture, Jesse Bradshaw scholarship, $250.

Barry Chambers, Hickory Valley, Engineering, the J. T. Perkins, $300.

Jim Childress, Milan, Business, the Farmers - Peoples Bank of Milan, $150.

Lane Cowert, Martin, Agriculture, Weakley County Farm Bureau, $150.

Anita Faye Davis, Troy, Business, Obion County Farm Bureau, $150.

Sylvia Davis, Nashville, Business, the Greenfield Mfg. Co., $200.

Jett Freeman, Brownsville, Agriculture, Harwood County Farm Bureau scholarship, $150.

Ernie Lee Grindler, Gleason, Engineering, Greenfield Mfg. Co. Employees Club, $200.

Joe H. Hilliard, Jr., Huntington, Agriculture, anany-mus, $100.

Marion Holt, Savannah, Agriculture, Tennessee Coop. Association, $100.

James Milburn Jones, Nashville, Liberal Arts, Martin Bank scholarship, $100.

Carroll S. Lashlee, Paris, Engineering, Spinks Clay Co., $300.

Sarah E. Manning, Maury City, Home Economics, City State Bank, $200.

Linda K. Moore, Greenfield, Education, Frank and Velma Prins, $200.

Jerry McDuffie, Greenfield, Education, scholarship, $200.

Lynn K. Page, Trimble, Business, Dyer County Farm Bureau, $100.

Grant Patterson, Waverly, Engineering, Humphreys Co. Telephone Company, $100.

Ronnie Phillips, Rives, Business, Argo - Collier scholarship, $150.

Nancy Poston, Greenfield, Education, Greenfield Mfg. Co., $200.

Carol Presson, Camden, Education, the John S. Murphy memorial, $150.

Macie M. Roberson, Ridgely, Agriculture, Dyersburg Production Credit Association, $300.

Henry Earl Roney, Dresden, Engineering, Dresden Manufacturing Co. Employees Club - $200.

Kenneth M. Smith, Obion, Engineering, Obion County Farm Bureau, $150.

Carol Warmbrod, Jackson, Education, Big Star Supermarket, $100.

Sara Ellen Webb, Palmersville, Education, Martin Bank, $100.

James C. Welles, Greenfield, Education, Greenfield Mfg. Co. and Dresden Mfg. Co. Employees, $200.

Joe White, Sharon, Engineering, Sharon Manufacturing Co., $150.

ASA Votes Several Initiation Changes

The All Students Association, in a unanimous vote, last night approved a new set of initiation rules for U-T Martin to be in effect beginning next fall quarter.

They are as follows:

There shall be no formal freshman initiation other than the wearing of beanies from the beginning of the second week of school until the day of Homecoming.

There shall be no air raids, kangaroo courts, or any such juvenile harrassment.

Clubs and Greek organizations are responsible for their own initiation.

It is requested that this be voted on and accepted by the ASA to go into effect fall quarter, 1962.

In another vote at the meeting the ASA approved revision of Homecoming Queen election procedure. These revisions are:

1. Each organization will nominate one candidate for Homecoming Queen.

2. These candidates will be turned over to the ASA Council which will narrow the candidates down to twelve. This will take place in the regular ASA meeting the month of Homecoming.

a. Each council member will vote for three individuals. The top twelve will be presented to the campus.

b. The election in the council will be conducted by the election Commission.

3. These twelve girls will be presented to the campus on the Tuesday prior to Homecoming.

a. The students will vote for three candidates; the one with the most votes will be Homecoming Queen; the second highest, first maid; the third highest, second maid.

b. This election will be conducted by the election commission.

UTMB Students To Attend 'Aida'

Twenty-one U-T Martin students and faculty members will attend the opera "Aida" by Verdi which is to be presented in Ellis Auditorium at Memphis by the Metropolitan Opera Company on May 7.

The opera will feature Gabriella Tucci, Carlo Bergonzi, Robert Merrill, Jerome Hines, Robert Nagy, Helen Vanni, Louis Sgarro and Irene Dalis in the major roles.

Among those students attending will be Robert Lee, Anne White, Charlotte Davidson, Eileen Howe, Cynthia Wilson, Peggy Smith, Vivien Gore, Taylor Johnson, J. T. Patterson, Linda Moore, Nancy Tice, Betsy Barton and Mrs. Margaret Burdett.

The members of the faculty attending will be Miss Harriet Fulton, Robert Stewart, Miss Vera Burnette, and Shaw Robinson.

Sgt. Ganstine Leaving For Service In Korea

SFC Harry Ganstine has received orders for Korea and will leave Martin for his new assignment around June 1.

Sgt. Ganstine was assigned to U-T Martin the summer of 1959 and has been performing duties as assistant instructor, Range NCO, Training Aids NCO, and the ROTC Rifle Team coach. His replacement has not been announced but is expected to arrive during the summer months.

Capt. Petty stated, "His departure will be a great loss to the department. He leaves a fine performance record here at UTMB and has set high standards for his replacement to maintain. We all wish him success in his new assignment."

The meeting is open to the public.

Courses In Water Safety To Be Given

Lloyd W. Groce, service representative of the American National Red Cross for the Southeastern Area, will be on campus May 7-11 to teach part two of the Water Safety Instructor's Course to U-T Martin students.

The students who complete part one of the course successfully, which is being taught now by Sally Roberts and Hugh Colville, Jr., upper division physical education students, will participate in part two.

Those passing part two will be recognized as American Red Cross Safety Instructors and will be qualified to teach any of the 11 Red Cross areas of swimming and diving. This includes Junior and Senior Life Saving.

The students participating in part one of the course are Cile Bramham, Gene Brodie, Greg Coggin, Paul Gilliland, Vivien Gore, Arthur Goss, R. C. Owen, Andy Renshaw, Ted Sines, Danny Stem, Billy Watson and Mary Jane Tilson.

Approximately 22 hours are being spent in the first part of the course in preparation for part two, which will meet for three hours each night.

Mr. Groce will also teach an instructor's course in first aid, providing there are enough people enrolled for it.

It is necessary to have an advanced first aid rating to be eligible for the course.

Anyone holding this rating and interested in taking this course should contact James Henson in the gymnasium immediately.

ROTC To Present Annual Awards

The ROTC Annual Awards Day ceremony, in which deserving cadets will be recognized for achievement, will be held May 10 at 1 p.m. on the college football field.

Several local organizations will present trophies to outstanding cadets. Among these are trophies awarded by the Rotary Club to the superior M.S. II and M.S. I cadet, and a trophy by the American Legion to the Military Science student attaining the highest grades in all subjects taken.

The Martin Jaycees will present two trophies for outstanding leadership, one to a freshman and one to a sophomore. The Chicago Tribune newspaper will award four medals. Gold medals will be awarded to the outstanding cadet in M.S. I and M.S. II. Runners-up in each category will be presented silver medals.

Among other awards, the school will give a trophy for marksmanship to the member of the rifle team who has attained the highest over-all score for the year.

Members of the visiting committee of the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools were in agreement on their favorable impressions of U-T Martin when interviewed yesterday.

Self Study Preceded Committee's Visit

The Self-Study has been conducted by the Martin Branch as a part of the study that has been conducted by The University of Tennessee as a whole. The parent institution and the Martin Branch each made separate studies and were visited by separate committees of the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Among the primary reasons for the study were to prepare for the visit and inspection by the Southern Association, and to determine ways and means of improving educational effectiveness of UTMB.

One of the guiding principles followed in making the study was to re-assess objectives and measure the success experienced in attaining them in preparation for increasing demands being made on the institution, according to Dean Paul Meek.

To facilitate the study a steering committee was appointed to have overall supervision over it, and 22 other committees were designated to carry on the detail work and various phases. In addition to work done by regular committees, each of the six departments conducted its own self-study with aid of its faculty members.

All committees and departments reported their results of the Self-Study to the Steering Committee which in turn reviewed the reports and made certain suggestions for additions and revisions. Following the processing of final reports, the Steering Committee referred them to an editing committee with the instructions to put them into narrative form.

Members of the Steering Committee were:

Dean Paul Meek, ex-officio member; Prof. H. B. Smith, chairman; Prof. William H. Baker, secretary; Dr. Muriel Tomlinson; Dr. James M. Moore; Dr. Glenn Gallien; Prof. J. O. Jones; Prof. Mary Rachel Armstrong; Prof. John E. McMahan; Prof. Paul Foote; Dr. Norman Campbell; Prof. Mary Lynn Benson.

Members of the Editing Committee were:

Prof. H. B. Smith, chairman; Dr. Norman Campbell; Prof. Wayne Tansil.

Tips Offered On What UTMB Man Will Wear

By Don Long

For all you new students who have just arrived on campus and for those of you who plan to come next year, here's a tip on what the well dressed U-T Martin student has in his wardrobe.

First of all, one needs a well wrinkled, well soiled, trench coat. (No practical use, just stylish.)

A second necessity is one pair of white sneakers; that is to say, one pair of dirty white sneakers. And if they aren't dirty, well, you've had it.

Some suggestions on how to get sneakers in the right condition are: getting friends to wipe the soles of their shoes on them, spilling paint on them, dragging them behind a car. You may say that dragging will cause them to look worn. Well, that too is stylish.

In fact, nothing is more stylish than worn, dirty "fruit boots." That's another thing—they are no longer sneakers; they are "fruit boots."

You'll need at least two pairs of worn out "levis," and one "perspiration pull-over" (sweat shirt to those of the high school crowd.)

The "per-pul" must be at least two sizes too big and smeared with paint or grease, and paint and grease distinction and also let others know which ever you prefer. The if you like to tinker with cars or like art.

Last but not least (or is it?), one must have a bathing suit, not for swimming, but for sun bathing. Oh friends, you ain't see nothin' till you've seen row after row of half-clad sun worshipers on our campus! It looks like 10-cent day at Coney Island.

Are you in the wardrobe know? Or would you be dubbed a non-conformist in the fashion field?

"It seems that this is an institution to which students feel comfortable in coming," said Dr. George W. Campbell, associate dean, Extension Division, Birmingham Center, of the University of Alabama. "This indicates that your school is meeting the needs of the students."

Students have every reason to be proud of this beautiful campus, according to Dr. Charles B. Vail, academic dean of Hampden-Sydney College in Hampden-Sydney, Virginia.

"You can be proud of the way Dean Paul Meek and others have planned and are still planning to guard the beauty of your campus," Dean Vail said. "I have looked over plans for future development here, and in every case there has been evidence of planning to conserve the beauty of the campus."

Dr. George W. Hood, dean of students for Stetson University, De Land, Florida, remarked that he was impressed with the neatness of dress among the students.

In discussing student activities, Dean Hood recognized the need of a student union building on campus. Dean Vail agreed that this is a very important need at UTMB.

Commenting on faculty and administration at UTMB, Dean Campbell said, "From what we have seen, UTMB has some very excellent leadership. I have never seen a university administrator who has a more complete, uniform respect than Dean Meek."

The faculty and program here compare favorably with those of any comparable institution, Dean Campbell added.

"We should hope for more research by faculty members which would also include students," said Dean Vail. "There is great excitement in doing new things, and it adds greatly to a college education."

Neither Dean Vail nor Dean Campbell said he thought a graduate program would be advisable for UTMB for the near future, though both felt graduate work would ultimately come. They agreed that the school should concentrate on consolidating its program and activities and the reconsider expanding the program.

"The four-year Liberal Arts program has been UTMB's best improvement," Dean Vail commented.

Other strong points, he added, are sound planning, good association with the Knoxville campus, and good physical equipment, specifically science equipment. However he pointed out that there is actually a need for more science equipment.

"The committee's mission here is to be of any help we can to the college. We are not here to investigate or be highly critical but to be helpful," Dean Vail said. "Our purpose and whole idea is to help you and your faculty to have an even better school than you now have, if this is possible."

Other members of the committee visiting UTMB are Dr. R. O. Lawton, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida, and Joe B. Ezell, assistant executive secretary of the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

STUDENTS NEED SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

In recent years businesses have begun to show an increasing concern about the large number of college graduates who have failed to receive the social development which comes from living and dealing with others on a college campus.

Professor William H. Baker, head of the Department of Business Administration at U-T Martin has submitted the following letter to the editor of The Vquette.

The Business Week magazine carried an article in the April 14, 1962, issue entitled, "Top Grads Swamped by Good Job Offers." There was one statement in this article which could conceivably be of interest to all of our students. You may wish to include it in the next issue of your paper.

Mr. David M. Brown, a college recruiter representing the Socony Mobil Oil Company, had this to say:

"When interviewing students, I do not expect all of them to be poised and at ease, but if interviewees came to college with a high school friend, lived as roommates off campus, took no part in college life, I generally rule them out."

"We haven't time to broaden them," he stated. "But if they have made an effort to get around and widen their perspective and show signs of success, then we may be very interested."

Brown added that all Socony recruiters were given special training and that this training involved the skill of judging the balance of the individual being interviewed, i. e.; such factors as his education, grades, experience, and personality.

Evidence has shown that the above is certainly a true situation. It might be a wise thing for us to stop and examine our progress in college this far. Perhaps some of us who will be back next year will want to reconsider our plans and purposes and to make different arrangements for some of our activities.

Even this school year we still have time to work on improving some of those parts of our education which are not called formal.

SELF STUDY REACHES CLIMAX

The Self Study which has been in progress at UTMB over the past year and a half has been brought to a climax this week by the visit of a committee of distinguished scholars from other colleges and universities.

The committee, representing the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, is on our campus to study our educational situation and to help us secure those improvements that are needed here. It is their avowed purpose here not to investigate or to be highly critical of our school, but to help in any way they can.

We have spent much time and effort in this program and have tried to see ourselves as a campus through the mirror of self-study. We can surely feel that our efforts will be of great value to us and to the future of our college through the improvements which will undoubtedly come as a result of this study. But even though our organized self study projects only occur once in a decade or so it is still a good thing for us all to keep our eyes open for good and bad points at all times and to work toward meeting the needs of the students and the area which our college serves.

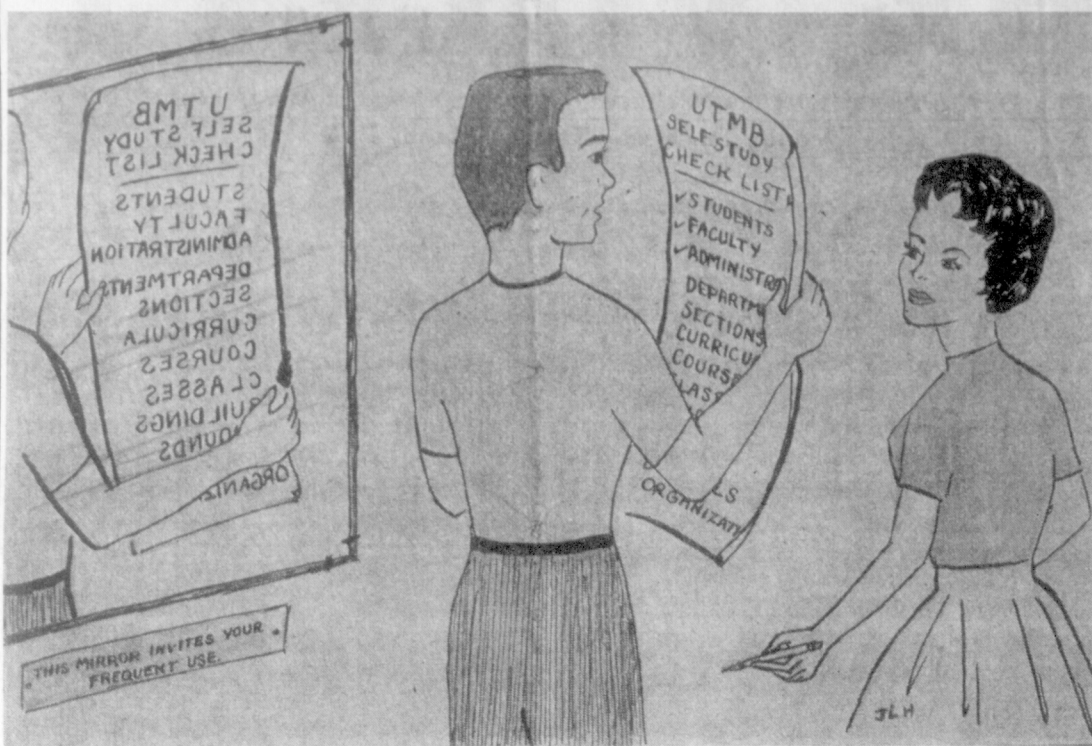

VANGUARD SCORES AGAIN

Vanguard Theater has apparently scored again with another hit in its current production, "Night Must Fall."

From all indications the mystery-drama is a success in almost every way, including acting, costuming, sound effects and stage sets. The recent improvements in the drama room have made seating more comfortable and allowed for larger audiences.

The theater group is to be commended for bringing to our campus another form of wholesome and valuable entertainment.

Another Rat Has Gone Down Drain

By Betty Gay Reed

LOST: one white rat from the rat lab in the Administration Building.

The rat was discovered missing from his cage Monday, April 23, when the girls in Nutrition 431 went to feed their experimental animals.

An announcement was released by Miss Mary Ida Flowers, instructor, immediately after his disappearance was discovered, to all the teachers in the Administration Building: "If you have a new pupil in one of your classes who doesn't have a class card, please notify us. We aren't sure what class he's attending, but we are worried about him so please return him immediately if found."

Girls from the class said they hated to lose the rat because he was being fed a nutritional diet.

It is believed it escaped through an opening alongside a drain pipe.

"This is the first time in my experience this has ever happened," Miss Flowers said. "They have always jumped around in their cages, but they have never jumped out."

UTMB Student Is $25 Prize Winner

Marsha Chadwick, a U-T Martin freshman, received a $25 gift certificate as winner of a recent "Shower of Gifts" sponsored by the Martin merchants.

Had Marsha been in any of the 16 participating businesses at the time of the drawing, her prize would have been increased to $125.

Mason Thriller Logs Heroics On High Seas

By Ed B. Chenette

Most of us, I would imagine, enjoy reading novels filled with courage, daring, and fortitude, especially when that novel is taken from the pages of history.

Such is the book Manila Galleon by F. Van Wyck Mason. This masterpiece by Mason, in a rather broad sense, tells of what befell seven warships sent out by the British government to capture the fabled "Manila Galleon," a Spanish treasure ship reported to be carrying over three million dollars in gold and silver aboard from the Americas.

The seven ships were sent out in 1740 with a total crew of more than 1500 men, most of whom were impressed farmers and old men. Commanding the fleet was Captain George Anson, later to figure prominently in the British-Franco Wars. Others making the voyage who were later to acquire some stature were Peter Vesrey, a doctor who helped to cure the sailor's lot from scurvy, William Pallister, a noted painter, Von Keppel, later First Lord of the Admiralty, and John Byron, grandfather of the famous poet, George Gordon Byron.

The voyage was filled with perils. Rounding the "Horn" into the Pacific where the treasure ship was supposed to be lurking the men-of-war were battered and tossed about by a furious hurricane which raged for three months. So terrible was the hurricane that two of the ships turned back and one "The Wager," of which John Byron was first lieutenant, was driven onto a reef leaving the crew shipwrecked on a barren island for months.

Later, when the remaining four ships had made their way around Cape Horn and the future was beginning to look bright again they were becalmed for months. Under the broiling sun, and with rotten food and only brackish water to drink, the men died off like flies. During this time three of the ships had to be abandoned because their leaky, rotten hulls would no longer keep them afloat.

Finally, the winds came and the one remaining ship, the "Centurion" was able to make her way to China where she put in at Canton for repairs. Even here the danger was not over for it was only with a strong show of force, which he did not have, that Captain George Anson was able to keep his ship from being blown out of the water by the Chinese emperor.

After months of delay the "Centurion" was finally repaired and she sailed into the Pacific to await the "Manila Galleon."

In September, 1744, the treasure ship appeared on the horizon. George Anson readied his ship for battle. For a ship mounting 60 guns and requiring a crew of 500 men, he had only 173 men, sixty of which were with the fleet when the voyage began. Facing him was a ship mounting 80 guns and carrying a crew of 600 men, almost insurmountable odds.

You read the book to find out whether or not the stalwart British were able to put out the fire and capture the treasure ship almost in their grasp.

May Day Is Time For Fun-Frolic

Today is May Day, and many people in many different places are celebrating its annual appearance.

May Day was first started by the Romans as a time when their youths would run through the fields dancing and singing to the goddess, Flora.

Later in England about the 14th century, the English celebrated the death of Robin Hood by having a dance and a May pole playing.

Today the celebrating of May Day is carried on in many of the universities and colleges of our nation. There is usually a May Day queen. The day is topped off by a formal dance where the queen is presented to her subjects.

But to many others of us, May 1 merely symbolizes a doorway through which we visualize the beautiful flowers and structures of nature.

CAMPUS CHARACTER—

Tread Is Jilted By First Love - Football

By Ernestine McCall

"We want Treadway!" What a familiar phrase to U-T Martin basketball fans!

Gene Treadway, a very well liked UTMB junior in secondary education, aided the cheerleaders last winter at basketball games by twisting to the music of the ROTC Band, and, thus, adding just a little more Tennessee Spirit to the atmosphere.

Aside from being an ardent Vol supporter, Treadway is also a campus leader in many other ways. This quarter alone he is dorm monitor at the Volunteer Lodge, football manager, Pi K A pledge manager; he has the male lead in the spring dramatics production, is a member of the Education and T Clubs, and does some entertaining besides maintaining a 2.4 over-all average.

In high school Treadway was a member of the C Club, Dramatics Club, president of the Vagabond Club and a drummer in the Knoxville Central High School Band which placed second in the nation three years in a row.

He lettered three years in football, track, and basketball. While playing football his spine was knocked out of place. Although he was told he could never play again, he visited a chiropractor. He not only played football again, but played it very well. His high school team received bids to the Optimist Bowl Game during Treadway's junior and senior years.

In his junior year of high school, Treadway's family moved to Cincinnati, Ohio. Since he wanted to finish high school at Central, Gene stayed in Knoxville living in a second story room of a funeral home. Football became the most important thing in the world to him; college football was rough and fast, and that's what he liked.

Treadway, a history major, came to UTMB three years ago. This right half back succeeding in getting a scholarship and proceeded to play and letter his freshman and sophomore years. It was October of his sophomore year that Treadway was injured in a game against Delta State. During a 23-day stay at Campbell's Clinic in Memphis, an operation was performed that repaired the ligaments and removed the cartilage in his right knee. After his treatment there, Treadway was told a second time that he could never play football again. However, last fall Treadway, refusing to give up, tried football again. After another injury, he decided to give up playing. At present Treadway is head manager for the Vols which appears to be a 24-hour job. He enjoys all sports but considers football tops. He commented, "Football has gotten me this far. Although it injured me for life, I couldn't have done without it."

Music and comedy are two of Treadway's favorite past-times. He and Peggy Wall have completely written five songs and set them to music. Originality shines in these songs; they are definitely popular music, but in some way they are different. The amazing part of the story is that the two never spend a lengthy period of time on their songs. Since their first thoughts always seem to be best, they merely sit around a piano, hit a few notes, add the words and soon they come up with a new song. It is also notable that, instead of one writing the music and the other the words, Peggy and Gene make both parts of the song a 50-50 proposition. Hoping to cut a record, the two are waiting replies from several different record companies.

Gene and Peggy have entertained at a number of recent events such as the ASA Retreat, the Spring Fever Dance and the Milan Arsenal Club. Gene put on a skit at the Dresden High School Jr.-Sr. Banquet. Listeners enjoy the comments that Tread makes between songs as much as the songs themselves. The fact that their voices harmonize so well together, coupled with Treadway's jokes and dom fails to win an audience. light-hearted comments, self-for this pair, encores are ordinary procedures.

Being an usher in a theater, a construction worker, an ambulance attendant, an assistant funeral director, and a salesman are a few of Treadway's past jobs. His favorite job was selling Bibles during the summer for Southwestern Company of Nashville. He liked the work because he not only dealt with the public, but learned to "handle" particular types of individuals.

Treadway's parents, four brothers and three sisters live in Cincinnati, Ohio. However, as far as the future is concerned, Treadway wants to return to East Tennessee. Whether he teaches, becomes a salesman, or goes into law school remains to be seen. He recently stated, "I've got a lot to do; I just need to find a way to do it."

Emeritus Prof. Kroll Continues To Write

By Linda Wheeling

Who's Who in America recognizes Harry Harrison Kroll as a noted educator and author.

Twentieth Century Authors lists him as a well-known novelist and autobiographer.

Warner Bros. knows him as the author of Cabin in the Cotton, which they produced in 1931.

Bette Davis wrote in her autobiography in Colliers magazine that the best line she ever had to say was one from Cabin in the Cotton, in which she also got her start in movies.

It is noteworthy that this celebrated author is an emeritus professor at U-T Martin. Prof. Kroll served as head of the English Department here at UTMB from 1938 until his retirement in 1958. He still retains an office in the Music-Drama Building, where he is writing more books. Often Prof. Kroll is seen on campus, and he is familiar to most UTMB students. Those who have not seen him in person know him by the colored portrait of him that hangs in the college library.

Prof. Kroll's own life is as interesting as any of those of the characters in his novels. He was born in Indiana in 1888. When he was about eight years old his family migrated in a covered wagon to Tennessee. His father for some years was a sharecropper near Dyersburg. Until young Kroll was eighteen he worked in the cotton fields, was a delivery boy and messenger boy, helped clear land, and did not attend school.

"But I can't remember when I could not read," Kroll stated in one of his books.

The move from Alabama to Tennessee was far from the last Kroll would make.

"We drifted down to Alabama when I was eighteen, and about this time, after sawmilling and tramping as a photographer, I quit home and roved about the Gulf Coast. I met a school teacher in the pine woods and married her at the age of twenty-three."

Kroll went to school a year or so, in a two-teacher backwoods school with sixth grade children and lived in a tent. He soon passed the state teacher's examinations of that time and took up rural school teaching.

"It was while I was living in an old log house in the pineywoods that I started writing. I did nine novels and threw them away," Prof. Kroll stated.

In 1919, Kroll decided he wanted a college education. He sold his small farm, took his wife and child, and went to Peabody College in Nashville. For three years he stayed in school, working most of his way through by selling short stories to the church school publications. In 1925 he received his master's degree. In the Cotton. It was filmed in Hollywood and published in England. Since then he has written some 26 novels, seven of which have been translated into French, Portuguese, Spanish, German, and other foreign languages. His short stories, verse and illustrations have appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, Esquire, Country Gentlemen, and Progressive Farmer. He has dealt with subjects from slavery to love and religion.

Prof. Kroll dedicated one of his novels to a UTMB student whom he had had in several of his classes. Another book

home on Lovelace St. across from UTMB campus. Professor Kroll was head of the UTMB English Section for 20 years. He is now busy writing another book.

Among others of his books are:

- The Mountain Singer, 1928;
- Three Brothers and Seven Daddies, 1932; The Ghosts of Slave Driver's Bend, 1937; I Was a Share-Cropper, 1937; No Romance, (play) 1938; The Keepers of the House, 1940; The Usurper, 1941; The Rider on the Bronze Horse, 1942; Perilous Journey (with Clifford Sublette), 1943; Rogues' Company, 1943; Waters over the Dam, 1944; Fury in the Earth, 1945; Witches' House, 1945; Their Ancient Grudge, 1946; Darker Grows the Valley, 1947; Lost Homecoming, 1950; The Long Quest, 1953; Summer Gold, 1955; My Heart's in the Hills, 1956; For Chloë, With Love, 1958; Savage Within, 1955; The Brazen Dream; Return Not Again — (with Annette Heard).

"The Golden Years will probably be published this fall, but this is not definite," Prof. Kroll concluded.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS—

Camille Sammons Elected ZTA Head

Zeta Tau Alpha
Camille Sammons has been elected president of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority for the second consecutive year. Other officers are Eileen Howe, vice president; Barbara Peoples, secretary; Carmen Beaver, treasurer; Gayle Hurst, ASA representative; Rosalyn Atkinson, Panhellenic representative; Jill Walker, historian; Mary Cutlip, rush chairman and Gayle Lutts, assistant rush chairman.

Home Economics Club
Marjorie Jackson has been elected president of the Home Economics Club for next year. Other officers are Katie Alexander, 1st vice president; Dovie Jo Polsgrove, 2nd vice president; Kathy Pratt, secretary; Betty McCollum, treasurer; Judy Hilliard, ASA representative; Emily Day, annual representative; Olivia Hollabough, reporter; and Misses Aaltje Van Denburg and Mary Ida Flowers, advisors.

Gayle Lutts and Dickie Hutcherson were chosen Home Economics Favorites; Alice Clare Freeman, the most outstanding senior in home economics and Dovie Jo Polsgrove, "Miss Home Economics."

Thirty-one home economics students and faculty attended the Tennessee Home Economics Association state convention held in Gatlinburg April 27-29.

Miss Mary Rachel Armstrong, head of the UTMB Home Economics Department and president of the THEA, will preside at the three-day session.

Chi Omega
The Xi Zeta chapter of Chi Omega initiated Sherry Crum, Trenton; Janice Fields, South Fulton and Barbara Missimer, Waverly April 12.

Mrs. Jack Glass was speaker at the Spring Eleusian Banquet held at the Biltmore Restaurant in Union City, April 13. Active, pledges and sponsors enjoyed a delicious buffet.

Business Club
Thomas A. Harrison, Memphis, manager of High's Ice Cream Novelty Plant, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Business Club April 16. Mr. Harrison spoke on the way ice cream novelties are made, and the business opportunities in this field.

The club also discussed the social for this quarter. A banquet and a hayride were discussed, but nothing will be decided until the next meeting.

Selecting the best corn varieties for this area is the first experiment station project to be attempted on the UTMB farm. The corn is planted and the soil is treated with the chemical, atrazine, to control grass and weeds. No further cultivation is needed. Shown with chemical spreader is Professor Elmer Counce, and Charles Graves. UTMB alumnus Paulus Shelby mans the machine.

UTMB Begins Ag Experiment Work

The U-T Martin farm this year is becoming a branch station of the U-T Agricultural Experiment Station, it was announced here last week.

The initial tests began last week with the planting of 36 varieties of corn. The tests are being used to evaluate the corn in this locale.

The tests also are to show the effects of a pre-emergence spray, atrazine. The atrazine was applied in the amount of two pounds per acre and is to check weed growth. The corn will not be cultivated.

This test is first of a series to be run on the U-T Martin farm, according to Elmer Counce, assistant professor of agronomy.

The corn was planted by hand, using jab planters. A total of two and one-half acres are involved in this experimentation.

Prof. Counce said that two other tests are scheduled to begin on UTMB land near the Union City airport in approximately two weeks. These two tests will include soy bean varieties and long time fertility evaluation of soybeans.

Working with Prof. Counce on these projects are Charles Graves, assistant professor of agronomy, and Paulus Shelby, graduate student in agronomy, U-T Knoxville. Shelby is a 1956 alumni of UTMB.

Club Will Select Most Outstanding

May 7 has been set for this year's election of the outstanding male and female Business Club members who will be presented leadership keys at the last scheduled club meeting May 21.

These awards are made annually in recognition of exceptional service to the club. Each year the membership selects by secret ballot the two members who have contributed most to the development of the club program. Normally, selection is made from those who have served as officers during the year.

Concerning the awards, Mr. Noble, sponsor for the organization, said, "Now that we have a degree program in Business Administration at Martin, responsible professional attitudes must be developed during the undergraduate years. One of the objectives of the Business Club is to encourage this development. These awards, already an established tradition, provide a means of recognizing students whose interests in business extend beyond the classroom into the realm of effective professional extracurricular activity."

BRUNDIGE DAIRY QUEEN

From The Sidelines

By Ronnie Gill

Spring sports programs arrived on the campus this week. The baseball team visits Union University, Tuesday, and Florence State, Saturday. The track team has a triathlon meet with Freed-Hardeman and Bethel on Saturday.

The UTMB baseball victory over David Lipscomb was the first VSAC win in several years. When I asked coach Chenette he said, "It's been a long time, more than I care to remember." Perhaps it's the same thing that occurred in the VSAC basketball tournament. The students were in the stands cheering for the Vols in their first home game of the season and part of the victory should belong to them. The athletic field is being prepared for the track meet Saturday. It's the first of its kind at UTMB. Part of the track has been scraped and repaired and a structure for pole vaulting has been erected. The track team has been practicing daily for some weeks. I predict they will win several events Saturday.

UTMB finished third in the Southwestern Relays at Memphis last week. Union placed first with Austin Peay second. Gene Brodie won the javelin for the Vols. Jerry Bethune, David Rowe, Bob Zachary and several others placed to garner enough points to finish ahead of Millsaps College and Lambuth.

It's official now, the Orange team is definitely ahead in the Orange-White series 2-1. The 34 to 8 defeat handed to the Whites was mainly due to the efforts of Gene Brodie, Billy Watson, and Darrel Smith. These three backfield players racked up most of the yardage and scored most of the points against Wilbur Edmiston and Vernon Prather's White team. But let's not forget the linemen. Many people say the game is won or lost by the linemen. I'll just say that they all looked good.

A new statistician will appear on the scene for the football and basketball teams next season.

David Duncan, a scholarly football and basketball player at Martin High School, will assume the duties of George Ingle who will graduate at the end of this quarter. George has a scholarship to study for a master's degree at Memphis State. He has done a creditable job this year with statistics. David and I recently attended a VSAC meeting for sports publicity directors at Austin Peay and were well indoctrinated with our job responsibilities. We predict fine things to come in the way of UTMB athletics.

Whites Win Out In 34 To 8 Blast

UT Martin's third annual intrasquad game and the football practice season ended Thursday night with the Orange 34-8.

White team victorious over the Orange 34-8.

A crowd of 1,100 saw Gene Brodie, Darrel Smith and Billy Watson stun the Orange team with their terrific scoring punch. Brodie gained 130 yards rushing and scored 14 points. Smith gained 58 yards scoring eight points. Watson threw two touchdown passes and ran one over.

Billy Whitefield intercepted a pass and returned it 32 yards for the final White tally.

The Orange team's points came on a 11 yard pass play from Vernon Prather to Scott Boehringer.

Head coach Robert Carroll said the hitting was good and both teams moved the ball well.

Vols Shut Out Lipscomb 4 To 0

UTMB's baseball team opened its home season April 26 with a 4-0 win over David Lipscomb. The Vols received brilliant three hit pitching from Jerry McDuffie. Leading hitters were Mike Wilkins and Billy Tines with two hits each. With the exception of two errors by Wilkins, UT showed an air-tight defense.

The Vols got the only run they needed in the first inning. Wilkins singled, stole second, and scored on a grounder by Shore.

They added two in the fourth on three Lipscomb errors, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly. The final run came in the eighth on singles by Tines and McDuffie and a ground-rule double by Wilkins.

Lipscomb made its only threat in the seventh. Two successive errors by Wilkins put runners on second and third with none out. Perfect throws to home by Stroud in center and Latham in right field held the runners on base and the threat ended on a bounce to Patrick.

Lipscomb — Griggs and Jacobs; UT — McDuffie and Shore.

Lipscomb Slugs UTMB 16 To 10

UTMB dropped a wild 16-10 game April 19 to David Lipscomb. The Vols held a 10-5 lead before falling to Lipscomb in the late innings. Highlight of the game for UTMB was the hitting of Patrick, who clouted successive home runs over the right field fence in the first and third innings. Wilkins, Walker, and Tines each added two hits.

The Vols also put together a 7-run fifth inning. Inability of the Vol starter, Roger Shore, and three following pitchers to hold Lipscomb in check cost the victory.

Patrick homered for UTMB in the first, but Lipscomb tied it on an error by Stroud and then went ahead 3-1 in the second. In the third, UT tied the score on a double by Wilkins and Patrick's second home run. Lipscomb went ahead 5-3 in the bottom of the third.

UTMB scored 7 in the fifth to take a 10-5 lead. Included in the rally were a single by Wilkins, a walk to Patrick, hits by Walker, Shore, and Stroud, a sacrifice fly by Speight, a hit by Pitts, a sacrifice fly to Hollingsworth, and a hit by Tines.

After allowing 5 runs in the first three innings, Shore shut Lipscomb out until the sixth when he was touched for three runs on a triple, a home run, a walk and a single. Stewart replaced Shore and gave up two walks to load the bases before McDuffie came in and ended the rally.

Lipscomb went ahead in the seventh 12-10 on four hits and then put it away with 4 off Tines in the eighth. Vol pitchers walked 12 batters and this led to much of the trouble.

UT — Shore, Stewart (6), McDuffie (6), Tines (8), Walker (8), and Pitts.

Lipscomb — McCord, Nichols (5), Hasty (5), Griggs (5), and Jacobs.

Home runs — Patrick (UT) two.

Intramurals Feature Joint Swim Meeting

By Mary Ross

The Intramural Swim Meet will begin Wednesday night, May 2, at 7 o'clock, and the second part will be Thursday night, May 3, at 8 o'clock. This is always a very exciting event, in which many students may participate. We are very fortunate to be able to have such an event, since this is the only school of our size in West Tennessee that has a pool.

First night events will include four form events for women, the 20-yard free style preliminary for both men and women, and the 40 yard free style preliminary for men. Thursday night final events will include in the free styles; underwater swim for distance for both men and women; the mixed shuttle relay, consisting of two men and two women of the same color team; the men's medley relay, consisting of three men of the same color team swimming 20-40-60 yards; and diving. It is not too late to sign up, and late comers will be able to sign-up on the nights of events.

Last year's girl's swimming champs — Randa Moore, of Yellow team, and Sally Roberts, of Blue team; and diving champs, Cile Bramham, of Blue and Randa Moore, of Yellow, promise to give a lot of competition. However, there are also quite a few good freshmen swimmers. This should prove to be a very interesting event.

In the Women's Softball tournament four teams are still in the running. White, with its ace pitcher Linda Wiley, was scheduled to play Black team today. Red plays Yellow in the game Wednesday. The championship game will be played by the winners of these two games. Linda Wiley has pitched the only 1-hitter this season. Judy Jeffers, of Green team, managed to get the only hit. This has been a very successful tournament, thanks to much hard

Winners In Math Announced Here

Winners have been announced for each of the four divisions of the state mathematics contest held for students of eight counties at The University of Tennessee, Martin Branch, testing center April 24.

Miss Louise Knifley was chairman of the contest. The winners competed with more than 200 contestants from 26 high schools of Benton, Carroll, Dyer, Gibson, Henry, Lake, Obion and Weakley Counties. They are now eligible for judging in the regional competition.

Among the top 10 in the various divisions were: Algebra I — Robert A. Mailing and Sandra J. Moss, Union City; Ronald B. Wilkes and Linda R. Stacy, Huntingdon; Samuel N. Reed, Mary K. Lockhart and Jimmy P. Roberts, Dyersburg; James M. Davidson, Bradford; Charles Wayne Kee, Camden; Carolyn A. Lane, Kenton.

Algebra II — Charles W. Hughes, Dresden; Suzanne Meek and Marshall T. Ferrell, Union City; Ernest V. Underhill, Joe A. Sigman and Robert G. Reeves, Dyersburg; Cecil W. Goodwin and Gerald B. Kirksey, Huntingdon; Patsy J. Ward, Martin; Peggy S. Cook, Paris.

Plane Geometry — David H. Belew and Carolyn E. Pearson, Greenfield; David A. Fowler, Tom D. Neeley and Tom G. Kallenburg, Union City; John I. Reed, Dyersburg; Karen A. Hendrix, Holladay; Joe E. Evans, Bruceton; Shirley J. Lowery, Paris; Eddie T. Ross, Dresden.

Comprehensive — Ronald H. Kirkland, Dale B. Covington, Almarie Masoud and Douglas L. Jones, Union City; Carroll Lashlee, James T. Rhea and Jayne A. Owens, Paris; Michael J. Jones and Mike B. Plog, Martin; Robert D. Henley, Tiptonville.

ROTC Riflemen Will Shoot Match

The ROTC rifle team will fire a shoulder-to-shoulder match with Castle Heights Military Academy May 11. Sgt. Harry Ganstine stated that he is very optimistic about winning the match. He added that this is the first time the rifle team has participated in a match against Castle Heights.

Commissions are not paid on arguments won, but on sales made.

work by the captains. Good going, girls! Also orchids to the several girls who are battling 1,000.

The Women's Badminton tournament is in the third round. Still in the tournament are "Ace" Freeman and Ann Gresham of Green, last year's winner and runner-up respectively. There are also many other "hot" players keeping the event going at a fast pace. There has been a lot of enthusiasm shown toward this event.

Twenty-three girls still remain in the Tennis tournament, which is proving to be a very popular first-year event. Thanks to good cooperation on behalf of the weather, there has been only one extension of a deadline.

The deadline for Round III of both the Badminton and Tennis tournaments is Saturday, May 5, at noon.

Paper Presented By Dr. Tomlinson

Dr. Muriel D. Tomlinson, professor of French at UT Martin, presented a research paper entitled "The Metaphysical Mr. Thibaudet" at the annual Foreign Language Conference which was held at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, April 26-28.

Dr. Tomlinson won a summer research grant to use in doing research on her subject, French critic Thibaudet. Thibaudet was a modern literary critic who also penned political treatises, and his political writings are the topic of Dr. Tomlinson's paper.

According to Dr. Tomlinson, Thibaudet foresaw the coming of World War II, he was a strong believer in the League of Nations and other organizations where men could talk over their troubles. He died in 1936 before he could see all of his premonitions come true.

Dr. Tomlinson did her research the summer of 1960 at the University of Geneva, Geneva, Switzerland; and at the Bibliotheque National in Paris, France, under the auspices of the Southern Fellowship Research Grant.

English Faculty To Attend Meet

Five U-T Martin English faculty members will attend the state meeting of English teachers at Middle Tennessee State College, Murfreesboro, May 4-5.

Prof. Ed M. Chenette, acting head of the English Department, Mrs. Jo McWhorter, Mrs. Hortense Parrish and Mrs. Mildred Payne will attend this meeting which is sponsored by the Joint Committee of the State Department of Education.

The program will include problems of freshman English in colleges and University of Tennessee. The group will review current practices and requirements, uses of placement tests, provisions for gifted and weak students, possibility of statewide standard in composition and requirements for certification.

Dr. Richard C. Peck, head of the MTSC English Department, will be general director of the meeting.

TWO PRESENTED IN JOINT RECITAL

Mrs. Rita Wiley Winter, a former U-T Martin student, and Robert Stewart, assistant professor of piano at U-T Martin, presented a recital April 23 in the Music Building.

On her program Mrs. Winter sang two songs from My Fair Lady by Lowe: "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" and "I Could Have Danced All Night." She also presented "Jewell Song from Faust" by Gounod.

Mr. Stewart included in his program "Prelude in E Flat Major" by Rachmaninoff and "Sonatine" by Pyle.

Mrs. Winter was accompanied by Miss Harriet Fulton, associate professor of music at UTMB.

Vols Drop Close Game To Union

The Vols played arch-rival Union April 17 and lost a close 4-1 decision. The Vols led 1-0 until Union tied the score in the fifth and then went ahead 2-1 in the sixth. Union's first two runs came on a home run by McDonald with two out in the eighth.

The Vols took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. With two out Walker was safe on an error and McDuffie walked. Walker scored as Blackstock dropped Shore's fly to center.

Union was easy for pitcher McDuffie until the fifth when Nation got on on a single off Tines' glove and scored on a double by Blackstock. It got the lead run in the sixth on hits by Conner, Corder, and Wingo.

UTMB loaded the bases in the seventh with one out on singles by Stroud and Tines and a walk to Hollingsworth. Quint replaced Weichand on the mound and ended the rally by striking out Wilkins and getting Patrick on a ground ball.

The Vols threatened to tie it again in the eighth. Walker walked, was sacrificed to second by McDuffie, and stole third with one out. McDonald replaced Quint and got Shore in an infield out and then struck out Stroud.

UT — McDuffie, Shore. Union — Weichand, Quint, McDonald, and Wingo.

UTMB Will Host Sports-Day Here

U-T Martin, Bethel and Freed-Hardeman will have a joint Sports - Day Saturday, May 5, at the UTMB Athletic Field and gym.

The schedule of outdoor events which begins at 1:30 p. m. includes women's soft ball throw between two women from UTMB and two from F-HC, mile run, women's 50 yard dash, two mile run, mile relay, archery and other contests.

The indoor events are scheduled to begin at 1 p. m. and will include table tennis, badminton singles and doubles, and men's and women's volleyball.

A triangle track meet including UTMB, Bethel, and Freed-Hardeman teams has been set for Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon relays include high jumping, broad jumping, pole vaulting, running, throwing the javelin and discus, and others. The affair will be run according to rules, and the winners of the events will be announced over the public address system.

Track coach Ross Elder said, "We have gone to considerable lengths to make this track meet successful. UTMB sports fans should have a chance to see the track team compete without traveling to another campus. We're looking for a good turnout."

The color of your house determines how often it needs to be painted, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Good house paint — if it's white, lasts at least four or five years before it needs renewing; tinted paints, five or six years; and dark-colored paints, six to eight years.

Mural Portrays UTMB?

Hanging on the wall of the library over the fireplace is one of the most interesting creative ideas at UTMB.

This mural displays the services and spheres of influence of UTMB and is divided into three sections vertically. The left section represents agriculture with the pictures of the farm, forests, farmer, and barn; the middle section represents home economics and education with the home, school, and the students. The sciences are depicted in the right section with the power lines, an industrial worker, and the scientific instruments.

When the library was finished it was decided that a mural of this type would be a ideal over the fireplace. In 1953 on request a student at The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Don Marr, was assigned the project. As a student getting his degree in fine arts he did the mural for his project. UTMB furnished the materials for the picture and Mr. Marr did the labor free of charge.

As he was working on it the artist sent sketches to be approved by UTMB and tried to make his colors correspond with those of the library. The picture was received in the spring of 1953 and Mr. Marr came to UTMB in the fall of 1953 to see the picture after it was placed in the library.

The picture is done in oil on wood and framed.

This picture as a whole displays the services of U-T as a land grant institution, UTMB as an undergraduate land grant institution in this area.
